DISCOVERY ANNOUNCES NEW SERIES THAT FOLLOWS THE SEARCH FOR DRUG LORD PABLO ESCOBAR'S LOST MILLIONS

Pablo Escobar, Colombia's most infamous drug lord, rose from a mere cocaine dealer to running the Medellin Cartel, becoming a multi-billion-dollar powerhouse in the narcotic market. While Escobar spent a lot of his money on luxury items and properties around the world, urban legends have led many to believe much of his fortune is still yet to be found, and that it's buried across Colombia and Central America. With never-before-granted access and Colombian government support, Discovery is going in search of this alleged hidden treasure in an all-new series, Escobar's Millions (Working Title) to air later this year.

Doug and Ben are former CIA case officers on a mission to once and for all solve the mystery of Escobar's fortune. Together they'll use their elite skillset – along with the latest advancement in GPR (or ground-penetrating radar) – to hunt down the illicit profits of Escobar's drug war.

Never has there been a search of this scope or magnitude. If there is a fortune to be found, Doug and Ben will uncover it and forever solve this great mystery.

Escobar's Millions (w/t) will premiere on Discovery Channel in Australia in late 2017.
