WENTWORTH

Season 4 Confirmed Foxtel and FremantleMedia Australia announce production set for spring 2015

Foxtel and FremantleMedia Australia today announced production on the fourth season of the internationally acclaimed drama Wentworth will be underway in Melbourne in the second half of this year.

Season 3 wrapped production in August and will premiere on Foxtel's SoHo channel on Tuesday April 7, at 8.30pm EST.

Then the fourth season of 12 episodes will make Wentworth Foxtel's longest running Australian drama series. Wentworth is a FremantleMedia Australia production for Foxtel and premiered in 2013. The series is distributed by FremantleMedia International and is now seen in more than 80 countries, including New Zealand, the UK and US.

Wentworth S4 will premiere in Australia on SoHo in 2016.

Foxtel Head of Drama Penny Win said "All of us at Foxtel and FremantleMedia Australia are extremely proud of Wentworth and the passionate bond the series has forged with drama lovers, starting with our discerning Foxtel subscribers and expanding to captivate audiences around the world."

FremantleMedia Australia Director of Drama and Wentworth executive producer Jo Porter said "Without wanting to give away any specific spoilers from season three, suffice to say it builds to a fabulous crescendo that in turn has given our season four writers a fantastic launch pad to explore what is next for the complex and compelling characters of Wentworth. Our loyal Wentworth fans are not going to be disappointed and I know our amazing cast and crew are going to relish bringing to life these potent stories."
